

Discipline: History of management thought

Annotation

Labor intensity: 5 ECTS, 180 academic hours.

Final control form: exam

"History of Management Thought" is one of the main scientific disciplines for students in the specialty "Management". The subject of the discipline is the genesis of management ideas, views, concepts, the history of the emergence and development of science about management. When studying this discipline, main directions management thought that arose in different time periods of historical development societies that formed the basis for the formation of subsequent management concepts; the main schools of management science and modern views on management; accumulated practical experience is summarized. The result of the study is obtaining a holistic knowledge of management science and its representatives, who laid the foundation of this science, about the basic ideas and practical methods in the field of management from the most ancient times to the present day, which will help students navigate the complex world of management, its various trends and directions in the study of specialized courses on management and practice.

Relationship with other disciplines. This discipline is closely intertwined with "Fundamentals of Management" and all other disciplines in the field of management theory.

Requirements for the initial levels of knowledge and skills of students for passing discipline. Qualitative development of the discipline presupposes the presence of fundamental knowledge of students, laid down in social, humanitarian and other general professional disciplines such as Economic Theory, Sociology, History, Philosophy. To study this discipline, the student must have basic knowledge about the historical epochs of the development of society, about the social economic and political processes, must know the basics of economics.