

Discipline: Socio-economic statistics

Annotation

Labor intensity: 4 ECTS, 144 academic hours.

Final control form: exam

The study of this subject is aimed at developing the basic knowledge about the essence of basic tools and practical skills in the field socio-economic statistics. The course introduces the listener in detail to the basic concepts, methods and tools that are needed in the process economic analysis. Within this subject, principles are presented construction of national accounts, a system of macroeconomic indicators, balance of fixed assets, assessment of labor resources and employment of the population, statistics on living standards, economic performance and social the situation of the population. In addition, the course provides for practical classes, including the solution of statistical problems, the study of social economic indicators, their trends, as well as forecasting methods, used in socio-economic statistics.

Educational-methodical complex on the discipline "Socio-economic statistics" is a set of necessary materials, instructions and guidelines, aimed at more effective mastering by students of this discipline.

This discipline is intended for a bachelor's degree in the specialty "Management".